B. Tax-Free Securities:-

a) Tax-free Commercial (Non-Government) Securities:-

These securities are those which are issued by a local authority, statutory corporation or a company in the form of debentures or bonds. Actually these are not tax free. Tax is paid by the issuing authority to the government on behalf of such security holders. The person who is holder of such security is liable to tax not only for the interest he is to receive but also the amount of tax which has been deposited on his behalf.

b) Tax-free Government Securities:-

These are securities on which no tax is deducted at source.

C. Less Tax Securities:-

These are the most common form of securities. Out of the amount of interest due to securities holder tax at the prescribed rates has to be deducted by the issuing authority before payment of interest. The assessee is to pay tax not only on the net amount of interest received but he shall be liable to pay tax on gross interest i.e., amount due before TDS.

Deduction of tax at source:- Section-193

Before making payment of interest on securities it is the duty of securities issuing authority to deduct tax at source at the rate in force during the previous year. TDS will be deposited in the government treasury on behalf of security holder. While paying the tax on the total income the amount of TDS will be adjusted by the securities holders.

Rules for Grossing Up:-

1. Interest received on tax free government securities:

In this case no tax is to be deducted at source. Therefore the interest calculated according to given rate of interest on these securities or the interest received is as good as gross interest. Hence such interest should not be grossed up.

2. Interest on tax free commercial securities and listed or unlisted debentures issued by the local authorities or statutory bodies:

- i. When the amount of interest is given- it should be grossed up by adding the tax paid by the company and the amount of interest received.
- ii. When the rate of interest is given- it should also be grossed up because tax is paid by the company.

3. Interest on less tax commercial securities and listed or unlisted debentures issued by the local authorities or statutory bodies:

- i. When the net interest is given- it should be grossed up by adding net interest and TDS.
- ii. When the rate of interest on securities is given- the question of grossing up does not arise. Therefore the amount calculated will be the gross interest.

4. Interest on Bank deposits: exceeding Rs.10,000. The rate of TDS is 10%.

In the above cases the formula for grossing up- Net interest / 90 x 100

5. Winnings from lotteries, cross word puzzles, horse race etc:

In this case the amount received is the net income i.e., after TDS at 30% of the amount. The formula for grossing up- Net amount / 70 x100

NOTE: No TDS in case of winning from gambling's and betting's.

Sub-letting:

When main tenant let out full or part of hire building to another person is called sub-letting. Income from sub-letting, if any is taxable under the head Income from other sources and not under the head house property. Out of actual rent received the expenses relating to sub-let portion are allowed to be deducted.

Bond Washing Transactions:-

The due dates of interest on securities are important because the interest will be the income of a person who is the owner of securities on such due dates. If these securities are sold just before the due date, the interest of the period will be the income of the purchaser. The seller may purchase the same or similar securities soon after the due date.

In this way it is possible to avoid the tax by transferring the same securities to his relative or such other persons who are having no taxable income or a small amount of taxable income.

These types of transactions are called bond washing transactions and interest on such securities will be deemed to be the income of the transferor and taxed accordingly.

Various Accounting Systems/ Methods:-

Cash System:- Under this system only such transactions are recorded in which actual receipts and actual payments of the business occur. Entries in the books are made only when money is actually received or paid. No account is maintained for outstanding, prepaid, accrued or unearned incomes. This system is best suitable for professional persons like Doctors, Chartered Accountants etc.,

Mercantile System:- Under this system proper record of cash as well as credit transactions is made. Under this system any income which related to the current year, whether actually paid or not is taken into consideration for computing profits or losses of the business. The profit and loss account prepared under this system gives the correct profit or loss and the Balance sheet gives correct financial position of the business.

Hybrid System:- Under this system of accounting the assessee adopts both the previous methods in a mixed form. Some transactions are recorded in cash system and some are under mercantile system depending upon the choice of book keeper. The income tax authorities accept all the three methods of accounting for the purpose of assessment of profits and gains.
